I love that sonic.net is local. I can reach them at any time - and they pick-up within a minute. My experience with all of the larger companies is that you will be routed through the options, and maybe get one that suites your needs. Please keep local access available!